Bailey's Crossroads Rotary Club members pose with Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chair Sharon Bulova, (front row, fourth from left) as she congratulates the club for the outstanding success of the third annual Technology Summit. Held in June at the James Lee Community Center, the summit focused on families and youth, embracing a learning ideology of opportunity, motivation, and innovation. Topics included were: "A Physics Career can be Fun," "Succeeding in College When English is Not Your First Language," and "Cyber Bullying." Over 170 youth and 70 parents attended the program, which is a starting point for an ongoing mentor partnership between Rotarians and the Fairfax County Computer Clubhouse Program.
